WHITE HOUSE PUSHING EDUCATION 'EQUITY PLANS' THE HILL
The Obama administration will unveil a new education initiative on Monday designed to ensure that all students, regardless of their race or their family’s income, have access to effective teachers. Education Secretary Arne Duncan will launch The Excellent Educators for All Initiative, and will join President Obama and a group of teachers for lunch at the White House to discuss the program, according to a White House official.

ARNE DUNCAN UNVEILS 50-STATE TEACHER-EQUITY STRATEGY EDUCATION WEEK
The U.S. Department of Education Monday detailed its long-awaited "50-state" strategy for putting some teeth into a requirement of the 12-year-old No Child Left Behind Act that has gone largely unenforced up until now: ensuring that poor and minority students get access to as many great teachers as their more advantaged peers. States will be required to submit new plans to address teacher distribution by April of 2015, or just a few months before the department likely will begin to consider states’ requests to renew their waivers from the NCLB law.

IN PASSING 3 BILLS, HOUSE PANEL TAKES FIRST STEP TO RENEW HIGHER EDUCATION ACT CHRONICLE OF HIGHER EDUCATION
Members of the U.S. House of Representatives' education committee took the first step on Thursday toward renewing the nation’s chief higher-education law, approving a trio of bipartisan bills that would promote competency-based education, expand financial counseling for student-loan borrowers, and streamline the information the government provides to prospective students.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT LAUNCHES $3 MILLION EVALUATION OF KHAN ACADEMY EDUCATION WEEK
The U.S. Department of Education has launched a $3 million randomized-control trial to gauge the effectiveness of Khan Academy, the now-ubiquitous online-learning site that popularized the "flipped classroom" model. WestEd's Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics division was awarded the grant to study the use of Khan Academy's online tutoring library in community college math classes.

Ed FitzGerald submits new nomination for Cuyahoga County treasurer The Cleveland Plain Dealer

Two weeks after withdrawing his previous nominee in light of council opposition, Cuyahoga County Executive Ed FitzGerald has submitted his new choice to serve as county treasurer. In a letter to county council Tuesday afternoon, FitzGerald nominated William Sheehan, a senior financial reporting administrator in the county's office of budget and management, to serve as interim treasurer for the rest of the year. Sheehan has worked for the county since 2008, and currently makes $66,200, according to county records.

GOP recommends Cleveland for 2016 convention Columbus Dispatch

In the end, the heart of rock 'n' roll got the nod. A Republican National Committee panel recommended yesterday that the party's 2016 national convention go to Cleveland over Dallas, putting to rest months of lobbying by both cities to land the coveted event. “I think you're going to have to scrape some of us off the ceiling,” joked an overjoyed Robert T. Bennett, a former Ohio GOP chairman.

OSFC Prepares for Expanded School Security Program; Construction Reform Taking Hold Hannah

The Ohio School Facilities Commission (OSFC) updated its guidelines for school security grants Thursday in anticipation of a new round of funding that will open the program to private schools and community schools in privately held buildings. The general spending and policy measure from the mid-biennium review, HB483 (Amstutz), funded a $17.3 million expansion of the $12 million program initially created in the FY14-15 budget. Jeff Westhoven, facility and program services chief for the commission, said that $17.3 million is estimated to be enough to cover all public and chartered nonpublic schools in Ohio. "That law is in effect in September, we expect to launch in October," Westhoven said.

ODE Releases Approved Reading Instruction Programs For Coming Year Hannah
The Ohio Department of Education this week released the official list of reading instruction programs that meet the State Board of Education's criteria for the third grade reading guarantee. ODE is required to ensure approved "research-based" reading instruction programs align to the reading competencies set by the board in January. The department said approved programs are those that achieved at least 80 percent on the scoring of their applications by ODE's English language arts consultants.

State Records $800 Million Surplus As It Closes Books On 2014 Fiscal Year The Cleveland Plain Dealer
State government finished the 2014 fiscal year with a nearly $800 million surplus, according to figures from the Office of Budget and Management. Ohio's fiscal year closed at the end of June. It marks the fourth consecutive year the state has ended with a surplus."For the fourth year in a row the state of Ohio has balanced its budget and produced a significant budget surplus, with tax revenues exceeding estimates and state spending kept below projections," said Tim Keen, the director of the Office of Budget and Management.

School Board Could Delay Component Grades Under MBR 'Safe Harbor' Hannah
The State Board of Education will consider slowing the rollout of new graded measures on report cards for local schools at its meeting next week. The K-12 mid-biennium review legislation, HB487 (Brenner), includes a so-called "safe harbor" provision to suspend the use of state ratings for school closings or personnel decisions while Ohio adapts to new, more rigorous assessments. The provision bars issuance of overall composite grades for school districts and buildings and gives the board discretion to forgo issuing grades on several components of the new A-F report cards for the 2014-2015 academic year.

Senate Passes Preschool Expansion Measure, But Bill's Future Unclear Education Week
In an unsurprisingly partisan vote, the Senate education committee gave its stamp of approval to legislation that would make President Barack Obama's vision for expanding preschool to more low- and moderate income 4-year-olds a reality. Although the measure has strong backing from the administration—and Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, the chairman of the Senate panel that oversees K-12 spending and policy—its political prospects are iffy at best. The bill was approved on a 12-10 vote, with no GOP support.

COLLEGE AND CAREER READINESS

DUAL MAJOR IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES BOOSTS GRADS BUSINESS JOURNAL DAILY
Fluency in a foreign language greatly improves a college senior’s chances of getting a job for which he is qualified, especially if he wants a position in, or related to, international business. Eighty-two percent of all seniors proficient in a foreign language find employment before or soon after graduation, according to the foreign languages department of Youngstown State University.

NEW PRESIDENT OF OHIO’S LARGEST PUBLIC UNIVERSITY ARRIVES AKRON BEACON JOURNAL
Ohio State University’s new president is ready to start his first day on the job. A seven-month search ended in January with the selection of University of California-Irvine chancellor Michael Drake as the 15th president of Ohio State. Drake, the university’s first black president, was scheduled to begin work Monday. He replaces former president Gordon Gee, who retired last year after remarks he made jabbing Roman Catholics and Southeastern Conference schools were made public.

Up to now he was acting, but today it’s official. Jim Tressel will spend his first official day as Youngstown State University president, opening up the Pollock House to campus constituencies. He’d been acting president since June 20.

WHAT 8 STATES ARE DOING TO BUILD BETTER PATHWAYS FROM HIGH SCHOOL TO CAREERS CHRONICLE OF HIGHER EDUCATION
Eight states are tackling a growing disconnect between the nation’s education system and its economy by exposing more middle-school and high-school students to jobs, making education relevant to careers, and beefing up alternatives to the four-year college degree, according to a new report from the Pathways to Prosperity Network.

NEW FUNDING MODEL STARTS FOR COMMUNITY COLLEGES OHIO STATE IMPACT
Starting today, the way community colleges in Ohio earn the money they get from the state has changed. While the shake-up might sound challenging, school leaders are on board. The new formula ties state funding to student achievement. Funding used to be based on enrollment, but it’s now based on milestones such as when a student completes a course or earns a degree.

MORE COLLEGE STUDENTS NOT RETURNING FOR SECOND YEAR, REPORT SAYS THE CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER
More first-time college students are not returning for a second year, according to a national report. That is a concern, officials say, because colleges have focused on increasing graduation rates in part because states, including Ohio, now tie funding to success. The portion of those who enrolled in 2012 and returned to school the following year dropped 1.2 percentage points since 2009, according to a national report. That represents about 37,000 students.

REPORT CALLS FOR COMMON YARDSTICKS ON COLLEGE REMEDIATION EDUCATION WEEK
To combat the need for remediation in college, experts need a clear picture of the problem. However, new research finds wide variation among states in how remediation is measured and reported. The Education Commission of the States discovered 30 states report annually on the number of incoming students who are placed in remedial classes (also known as developmental education), but there was little consistency in how students were counted and monitored. Others have no tracking systems.

NEW FEDERAL DATA SHOW THE COST OF COLLEGE TUITION, SCHOOL BY SCHOOL

EDUCATION WEEK

With the price of higher education rapidly increasing and national student loan debt piling up, comparing college costs has become key for many prospective students and families. The U.S. Department of Education this week updated lists that provide information on the costs to attend some 4,300 higher education institutions, as part of an annual effort to make costs more transparent and to give families and students more information to pick a college that's the right cost for them.
