

Highly Qualified Teacher for Math K-12

JANUARY 9, 2017
FEBRUARY 16, 2017

This course is for all K-12 teachers both with and without previous study in the teaching of subject matter. It is designed to help participants build confidence in their ability to successfully teach Math. Participants will participate in the course using online learning by posting responses to readings and responding to others in the course's discussion forums. Throughout the course participants will read and reflect on a variety of articles and lesson plans, and they will detail how the newly acquired information can best be put to use in the classroom.

Completion of this HQT professional development series will provide 45 clock hours that contribute to meet the HQT requirement for Math

This professional development series will consist of:

- Two (2) three (3) hour mandatory face to face sessions (6 hours)
- Self-paced online work using content specific Modules (5 hours)
- Documented practical application/field experience in the classroom (10 hours)
- Online discussion board participation (8 hours)
- Documented additional preparation time for assignments and readings (10 hours)
- Completion of a collaborative project with other participants of the course to be presented at the final face to face session (6 hours)

Cost: 65.00 workshop fee

Graduate Credit: Three (3) hours of graduate credit, at a reduced rate, will be available to purchase through Ashland University.
