

The New Graduation Requirements and Career Planning

September 4, 2019

The first meeting of the Career Readiness Leaders Network will be a full day with a deep dive into the graduation requirements as they pertain to career readiness and career planning. The objective at the end would be to have a framework for an articulated plan for your district in regards to career planning while incorporating new graduation requirements. Please bring your team with you. Seating is limited to 50. (This program is similar to the one happening on September 3rd however this one focuses specifically on career readiness and creating a plan of action incorporating the graduation requirements)

- Sarah Wilson, Program Administrator for College and Career Readiness from the Ohio Department of Education will be kicking off the event to provide an overview and guidance in regards to the new graduation requirements.
- EnvisionEdPlus —education consultant, Michele Timmons will be facilitating the graduation requirement and career planning discussion
- John Gallagher, HR Director from Component Repair Technologies will be presenting an innovation program to help those students that are planning to go directly into the workforce and how you can get your students involved.
